

How to connect to the University Pull Printing System from a unmanaged Windows laptop

On stand-alone (non-DirectAccess enabled) Windows laptops click the Start button, then type \\pcountprint and then click Open:

In the login box that appears click More Choices then use a Use a Different Account

Enter your credentials to connect	to: pcount-print
nawo
Password
Remember my credentials
The mean of the second as
The user name or password is in	correct.
The user name or password is inv More choices	correct.
The user name or password is in More choices	correct.
The user name or password is in More choices nawo	correct.

Use campus\username (e.g. campus\nabc123) and your usual password to login

Tick the box to Remember my credentials if you are the only user of this laptop

Right click on the printer PullPrint and then click Connect

You should now be connected to the printer. Finish by trying to print a test page